

THI-SHOW TRANSCRIPT 2020-07-05

BITTER SWEET SYMPHONY Tonight is part 2 of our THI Expose series and reveals more of the hidden elements of the programs, players and rogue elements involved in the current skullduggery permeating around the world. All of which is designed to put the people in fear, keep the people divided, throw them off balance and activate the bot elements of our society, who are hell bent on keeping the slavery and old control based system in place, due to their hive mind propensity to hail all authority. We will find out the methods they use to initiate that later in the show, and reveal the demonic plans of psychopaths, with zero clue to what they are doing or espousing, and even less of a clue what they are actually achieving or the fall out should the event unfold. These people have lost the plot altogether and reduced to desperate measures to stay relevant, they are not, and avoid exposure of other more heinous criminal acts these poor excuses for human beings have undertaken, if indeed they are human. This event all started with the Rockefellers Lock step plan back in 2010, and it is my belief, the main original event was to do with the Zika Virus. They did several live runs at it with viruses like Aids, H1N1, Sars and Ebola, but their attempt at the Zika zombie virus in 2017 was prevented. But the greatest virus amongst us today and is highly contagious is, stupidity. This is their new and current event known as Event 201. The forerunner or front puppet of this event is one man, Bill Gates or is it Be ill Gates, having successfully toured India, Pakistan and Africa with his death poisons, and by successful I mean they killed many. Forcing young terrified children into having the vaccines, which left many maimed, many dead and many sterile, all because they decided they don't want certain people on this planet. The question remains who made them god or Source? But as Gates of Hell or is it Gates of Babylon, one and the same to me takes the limelight and flak, there is always a hidden army of agency, University and think tank based groups pushing from behind the scenes, we will be revealing them all tonight as well. Yet again there will be common themes of names and organizations we have covered in FRWL series. The object of this show is to not put people in fear, but to highlight what they are up to and gives people a chance to stop or counteract it. HEAVEN AND HELL

Event 201 was a large scale simulation of a global coronavirus pandemic, the final presentation of which, was held in front of an audience on 18 October 2019. The "exercise players" were prominent individuals from global business, government, and public health, including Avril Haines, who was Deputy Director of the CIA under Obama. "The policy crisis for the board to consider in this meeting is this. How should national leaders, businesses and international organizations balance the risk of worsening disease, that would be caused by the continued movement of people around the world, against the risks of profound economic consequence of travel and trade bans?"

On 24 January 2020 the Johns Hopkins Center for Health Security issued a "Statement about nCoV and our pandemic exercise": "To be clear, the Center for Health Security and partners did not make a prediction, we are not now predicting that the nCoV-2019 outbreak will kill 65 million people. Although our tabletop exercise included a mock novel coronavirus, the inputs we used for modeling the potential impact of that fictional virus are not similar to nCoV-2019." They lie, they are similar because they implemented the simulation or table top exercise as they call it. Event 201 was the 4th in a series of such exercises, of which the first, Dark Winter, occurred in June 2001. In 2017 during the Davos World Economic Forum, Gates initiated something called CEPI, the Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations, together with the governments of Norway, India, Japan, and Germany, along with the Wellcome Trust of the UK, who are like a mix of the Clinton Foundation and WHO, with extensive links to all major pharmaceutical companies like Glaxo, who became GlaxoWellcome, then Glaxo, Smith & Kline. Its stated purpose is to "accelerate the development of vaccines we'll need to contain outbreaks" of future epidemics. In September 2019, Bill Gates made a Netflix video which made an eerie imaginary scenario. The video, part of the "Explained" series, imagined a wet market in China, where live and dead animals are stacked and a highly deadly virus erupts that spreads globally. Gates appears as an expert in the video to warn "If you think of anything that could come along that would kill millions of people, a pandemic is our greatest risk". Gates and his psychotic manwife along with their Foundation is the pandemic, who was threatening if nothing was done to better prepare for pandemics, the time would come when the world would look back and wish it had invested more into potential vaccines. The event was introduced by Anita Cicero, Deputy Director of the Johns Hopkins Center for Health Security and chaired by Tom Inglesby (Johns Hopkins University). Which group was designated to reveal the official data and statistics for the virus? John Hopkins is it live or the AI simulation figures they ran before implementing it? John Hopkins labeled as Bloomberg school of health, and so was funded by born in and born to then.

The official website listed 15 "players", although a couple more appear to be seated in the photo (left): Latoya Abbott, Risk Management & Global Senior Director Occupational Health Services, Marriott International Sofia Borges, Senior Vice President, UN Foundation Brad Connett, President, U.S. Medical Group, Henry Schein, Inc. Christopher Elias, President, Global Development division, Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation Tim Evans, Former Senior Director of Health, World Bank Group George Gao, Director-General, Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention since 2017 Avril Haines, Former Deputy Director, Central Intelligence Agency; Former Deputy National Security Advisor Jane Halton, Participating as innocent-sounding Board member of ANZ Bank; but has a past, as leader of PM John Howard's murderous People Smuggling Taskforce; was appointed to the Australian National COVID-19 Coordination Commission Matthew Harrington, Global Chief Operations Officer, Edelman (PR company) Martin Knuchel, Head of Crisis, Emergency and Business Continuity Management, Lufthansa Group Airlines Lufthansa were involved with the SS of building private army with German peoples money to work against the German people in late 1920's Eduardo Martinez, President, The UPS Foundation, a Clintonesque type Foundation backed by the UN. Rear Admiral Stephen C. Redd, Director of the Office of Public Health Preparedness and Response at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Hasti Taghi, Vice President & Executive Advisor, NBC Universal Media Adrian Thomas, Vice President, Johnson & Johnson Lavan Thiru, Chief Representative, Monetary Authority of Singapore. All the usual Zionist based operatives in there UN, CIA and other assorted clown based groups. These people are all psychopaths mired in their own self importance, whilst exhibiting maximum levels of stupidity that goes off any recognizable scale. All of above entities are enemies of humanity and should be treated as such, pariahs and the real virus of this planet. This is why the people must build The Peoples Club, by sheer numbers we can create a world for and by the people. The people have no voice and never have, with the peoples club we can and we will. Where we can have rational and common sense people creating a new and better world for the all, not the self selected few who operate on greed, ego and psychopathy.

The event was introduced by a video featuring "Mike Ryan, the executive director at WHO and the head of WHO's emergency program", WHO are the emergency in and of themselves. The conjectured pandemic was "a SARS-like virus, germinating quietly among pig farms in Brazil before spreading to every country in the world." Is it a coincidence that Brazil is one the lead reporters of alleged illness and death, which was laid bare by one of their politicians recently, who visited the "over stretched" hospital and found it was completely empty, same script as New York hospitals. The deaths recorded as revealed by our THI expose show in May, is down to a deliberate practice of killing off the elderly, with what people are misrepresenting as a rank poor decision making by the politicians, to send the sick into care homes, it was not a poor decision it is premeditated murder. The site reported that "the immune-resistant virus (nicknamed CAPS) was crippling trade and travel, sending the global economy into freefall." The reason being is because the travel industry is collapsing anyway and was about to collapse further, and the economy was based on illusion and they could no longer play the illusion game, due in large part to the work Kim, I and The Trust did over the past 4 years.

Topics discussed during the event included: Roles of governments and social media in controlling the narrative about the virus, media censorship advised. Challenging "conspiracy theories" that it "pharmaceutical companies or the UN have released this for their own benefit" Internet censorship, Facebook, Google, LinkedIn, Microsoft, Reddit, Twitter and YouTube intensifying existing efforts to cooperate with Health Departments. It proves once and for all that all of our governments are corrupted and co-opted, social media also, although the latter is more obvious to the general populace. Ah the conspiracy theories the meme of the kingpin of many of the rogues operations globally, the CIA, who we have covered extensively in our From Russia with Love series for more details about them. Internet censorship in league with Health Departments is another confirm of the piece I did a few times, about how all the lead entities in society designed to protect the people they say, like medical, police, social services, government, law and military are not there to serve the people, but to run rogue programs against the people, protect and serve the people my arse. Again I will repeat again, this is why we build The Peoples Club, with mass numbers all taught and involved, that will end this nonsense once and for all, we the people for first time in history will control the narrative and operate in a better way than these ouroborus non thinking jackass people.

Dealing with public unrest: Flooding with "correct" information ("developing the ability to flood media with fast, accurate, and consistent information") usual clown modes of operation social media and fake news, aligned with another group of clowns that they have had to create for this purpose, known as fact checker. Accurate and consistent information, haha what an oxymoron that is, they have proven time and time again to lie and cheat with their narrative. It is a tribute to the alt media and in a large part this show that they are now forced into propaganda, by forced I mean they are working extra hard to retain the spin and control of the narrative, that for so long remained unchallenged, it is not the case now. Surveillance using mobile phone tracking, ah the CIA/NSA/Silicon Valley app that many of the bot people all signed up for, a tracking device on steroids, one wonders whether app is short for apathetic. Prioritizing drug use, redirecting antiretroviral drugs away from HIV patients - still think your hospitals and doctors have your back and interested in your health? to be clear I am not mentioning the general doctors and nurses as most are oblivious, and yet some doctors are no better and in some cases worse than drug dealers, and must also take their responsibility for crimes against humanity. Stockpiling of medical supplies such as drugs and facemasks - well, well, well hello Mr. snake oil salesman himself Jared Kushner in league with FEMA, who we outed in April as part of a scheme in which he and FEMA blocked with threats, all American companies from supplying PPE's. This tells you who Kushner works for in case you need any further proof, the question remains and is looking a bit suspect now is, who is Trump working for? Are we believing he doesn't know about this stuff? why is Kushner so prominent in American policy, when he clearly operates on behalf of another country, isRAel. Why does Trump trust this guy to run our country, Trump is suppose to be looking after American people and interests, not isRAel. This was my concern of Trump back in Cosmic Voice 2015 and sadly despite working with him indirectly for a time with Kim and the Trust, those concerns have not only not gone away, but in some cases my own personal concerns has increased. Although I have been made aware of a recent rift between Trump and Kushner, that rift needs to get wider and severed, as that clown will undo anything beneficial Trump may or may not be doing. The impact on the economy and on the virus of travel and trade bans - this was warned of in the Clowns in Panic show first aired June 2019, it is called decentralization, which for the idiots who still follow bitcoin is NOT a positive in anyway shape or form, you want to know what decentralization looks like watch the series Continuum, it's all there. Global "coordination" of efforts to mitigate the virus - yes the magic spread of the virus that can jump 6k miles across open ocean to America's west coast, then travel another 3K miles to the epicenter of evil, New York and yet we are told it can't transfer 6 feet by the social distancing brown shirted clowns. So, we have John Hopkins center supplying all the doom laden figures of illnesses and death, all designed to keep people in fear and then we reported this in May. In a surprising move, the CDC has suspended its collection of data for this years flu season, prompting many to wonder, just why they would make such a decision. St. Petersburg, Florida attorney Rogan O' Handly noted that, "during the prior 2 flu seasons, it" [the CDC] "collected data from Oct 1, 2017 to May 19, 2018 and Sept 30, 2018 to May 18, 2019, respectively." Noting that "For some reason, they stopped collecting data this year on April 4, 2020. For coronavirus incidents read flu and then it makes sense.

Relationships between government and big business - there is no relationship, big business is the government. Bailouts of governments, "too big to fail" businesses and key players - it is not a bail out, it is called harvesting the millionaire groups, again we warned of in Clowns in Panic show. Establishment of worldwide monetary funds in new dimensions - new dimensions? interesting terminology and more jackassery. Like the General who spoke to Kim stating we are waiting for pallets of USD to arrive from another dimension, negating the fact that A: USD are not printed in other dimensions and B: even if it was, you would not be able to see or feel said USD notes, due to the different density!! like I have said clowns and jackasses are running the asylum. These are the people you are entrusting to look after you? they are the most stupid conspiracy theorists ever. Allaying public concerns about vaccines - haha that didn't work out too well for you, which is why they are now trying to force vaccinate everyone. Building an international coalition, promotion of industry-led Global Governance - this is the public version of one world government, they have had a hidden one world government since 1920's. Enable poor countries' vaccination with "solidarity funds" from rich nations - this is the elimination program previously administered by Gates and his Foundation of death.

May 27th I wrote this and 3/4 days later they started implementing what I was warning about. The event in Minneapolis yesterday where cops killed a person (forget the damn color, it was a person) in unnecessary circumstances. That event is the medias, govt, agency clowns attempts at a pull back from the COVID and Lockdown event. They will turn it into a race war, do not fall into another trap. As the lockdown winds down, they will introduce another lockdown on us, curfews. THInk different and ALL lives matter. We already have Martial Law, it is called the Lockdown, they issued Martial Law on March 21st remember, it was in the intel for the show, martial law for and by the people, and the people declared it on themselves. Curfew means the covering of fires, dampening the fires, so what were the fires? the people protesting, seeing the picture now? When you consider it took the government a few months to get round to dealing with issues and enforcing a lockdown, how have they reacted so quickly, just a few days to enforce curfews? unless of course it was all part of the plan. Do we trust the plan? Should we trust the plan? or wait until they prove themselves with full on public confirmation of actions? SOMETHING TO BELIEVE IN

Shift from Continuity Of Government to Business Continuity Management - that is decentralization. The following quotes are drawn from a Machine-generated Transcript of the event “[M]y team has been monitoring the public response, and on various social media channels and cable networks, there's been some conspiracy theories that are around, about the potential that pharmaceutical companies or the UN, have released this for their own benefit... if conspiracy theories like this come up already, we are on the edge of hysterical reactions.” (18 October 2019) “My team has been monitoring the public response, and on various social media channels and cable networks, there's been some conspiracy theories that are around about the potential that pharmaceutical companies or the UN have released this for their own benefit.” - oh my throw Harvard, CIA, WHO and the Black Sun Asia group into the mix and you have the correct narrative. So as we move forward, obviously, trust in pharmaceuticals and government is very important at this moment. Do you really think we should be trusting either of those organizations? So as we move forward with developing the right scenarios, we have to make sure that the public communication is a major part of that because of these conspiracy theories.” “Some governments have taken control of national access to the internet. - further evidence governments cannot be trusted, but also evidence of our push back against their narrative, the fact they have to spend time doing these things actually delays their process and uses up much of their resources. This is a major victory for all the once named conspiracy theorists, it is no longer in many cases a theory, but a fact. Others are censoring websites and social media content, and a small number have shut down internet access completely to prevent the spread of misinformation. Penalties have been put in place for spreading harmful falsehoods, including arrests. Other countries have taken a more moderate approach, and have focused on promoting fact checking efforts, and working with traditional media outlets, yet these approaches are limited in scope. Social media companies report that they're doing all they can to limit the use of their platforms for nefarious or misleading purposes. - whilst ignoring child trafficking, pedophilia, organ harvest and using them as sex objects for terminally sick peoples own gratification. But this is a technically difficult problem, and false, misleading or half true information is difficult to sort without limiting potentially true messages. The bottom line is that members of the public no longer know who to trust. oops. Both the misinformation and the measures to control it have led to a crisis of confidence” Oops again another victory for the alt media and why this very public move is now playing out as a last resort. "It's important that the UN and WHO remain very clear, but when they challenge governments directly, they often get into this issue of sovereignty, and so I think it's really important not to have that as the only response. There is no sovereignty again an example of them not knowing all the facts, as they all had tiny pieces of the puzzle and none had the full picture, until Kim and I with some help from Shane discovered that. I think it's really critical to think about soft power influence, which is other influential's, who can call up the head of state, or powerful constituencies within those countries. - most of them don't need soft approach courtesy of CIA and other 5 eyes groups plus the P2 Lodge who have installed their puppets in most countries. We've seen this in the context of mobilizing religious leaders in the context of polio, or specific business leaders, where you can soften perhaps a very hard line from government through less and more stealthy entry points, rather than trying to punish them through the International Health Regulations or something like that." "it shouldn't be controversial to suggest our response should prioritize both lives and livelihoods, absolutely, we need to save lives. - that is the illusion of saving lives, beyond their lives no color lives matter, and that is a fact lost on the now popular racist based group called Black Lives Matter. This next line I am going to have sooo much fun reading and is both bizarre and hysterical at the same time. "We all know someone who's been affected by cats", oops a faux pas there and heads up to our shows revealings of the cat issue? as our resident THI Cat Police ambassador said on June 25th, Tommy was right about cat memes - oh dear and oops, and I rest my case. But we literally cannot afford a heavy handed response that suffocates our economy, pragmatism is a wise choice. - ah the ouroborus program again as earlier comment stated they would have to bail out certain groups so they knew the economy would tank, it's only the only thing that tanked recently either, and now they are saying we have to be careful about suffocating the economy!! it beggars belief. But I will take you back to a conversation the Trustee had with the leader of the Black Sun Asia, when Kim raised these concerns, he said "it's gone too far and we don't know how to fix it" I mean, what exactly are the risks and benefits of slowing air travel of staying home from work, closing schools, disrupting supply chains, interfering with our reliable channels of communication and news? Sure, some of these steps can help slow caps, but often only most generally and with serious costs, when this is all over some families, some cities will have suffered more from our interventions, then from CAPS." "The world saw large scale protests and in some places riots, people were angry about the lack of access to health care and medicine, as well as government's inability to protect them from the disease. This led to violent crackdowns in some countries and even martial law, political upheaval became the rule across the globe. - this is suggestive of knowing ahead of time and has a few possibilities, a remnant of the Looking glass technology which is no longer in play, they have a recording of the 6 loops and this played out before or their recent AI ran the scenarios and this is what is playing out. Public lost trust and their respective administrations, several governments fell, while others were desperately striving to hold on to power. This spurred further crackdowns, attempt to control media messaging originally aimed only at health related misinformation became used increasingly to quash political dissent.” - which has taken place.

News.com.au termed it a "creepy coincidence" that it simulated a global coronavirus outbreak which so closely foreshadowed the ensuing 2020 COVID-19 Pandemic. Jane Halton, who participated in the event was appointed in March 2020 to the Australian National COVID-19 Coordination Commission. Bill Gates, whose Gates Foundation co-funded it, was aggressive in his support of the COVID Lockdown strategy and his promotion of a COVID vaccine and accompanying digital ID as their only exit strategy. And there you have it a full confirm of Clowns in Panic show, a vaccine that has an integrated digital ID, which means chipping and the digital revolution including currency is what not only they want, but need as a matter of grave importance and urgency. Why? because they have lost control of the old system, and they have to implement a new one to remain in control, the key words was it was "their only exit strategy" and is revealing they are trapped currently, which is exactly what this show has been telling you. As of March 2020, Wikipedia reported that "The exercise illustrated areas where public/private partnerships will be necessary during the response to a severe pandemic, in order to diminish large-scale economic and societal consequences." - there is no public partnerships, it is all ran by Rothschild's and Black Sun organizations in league with the Hebrew/Annunaki groups. "At the ID2020 Alliance summit last September [2019] in New York, it was decided that the "Rising to the Good ID Challenge" program would be launched in 2020." - this is your digital chipping program designated for October this year as we will find out more later in this show. But then we warned of this back in May also with this piece, Gates and MIT are currently developing the human implantable quantum dot vaccination delivery system, which is described as a tattoo for the hand, which will include our identification mark and vaccine records. It needs an enzyme called luciferase in order to make it work.

Here is some of the names involved in this program:

Anita Cicero	Big pharma lobbyist, public health planner and participant in Event 201
Brad Connett	Large vaccine pharma company executive, Event 201 participant
Eduardo Martinez	legal counsel to the world's largest postal logistics company, UPS, and director of the UPS Foundation
Chris Elias	Doctor and Bill Gates protege
Timothy Grant Evans	Close to a number of Foundations, World Bank, WHO. Event 201 participant.

- George Gao Chinese CDC control
- Avril Haines CIA
- Jane Halton Former leader of the murderous People Smuggling Taskforce, event 201 participant
- Hasti Taghi NBC media
- Latoya Abbott Occupational Health Services, Marriott International, did you know most of the lead hotel chains are a subsidiary and in part owned by the CIA?
- Lavan Thiru Monetary Authority of Singapore, linked with Shanghai stock Exchange and HSBC who are main harvesting centers of our money in these times.
- Martin Knuchel Lufthansa Airlines, so is SS then and no they are not German, also leader of Swiss airlines, and Swiss foreign ministry, the Swiss health ministry, and embassies and authorities in various countries.
- Matthew Harrington Edelman PR company, the think tank group, who created fake online Walmart group said to be for the benefit of the staff, but was actually ran by this group on behalf of Walmart. Commissioned to act for the Keystone pipeline, involved in phone hacking scandal in the UK, Other clients have included Vidal Sassoon, Red Cross, Cantor Fitzgerald, Royal Dutch Shell, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Starbucks, and the government of Saudi Arabia. It has used front groups to help the American Petroleum Institute reduce the perceived environmental damage caused by oil companies. Daniel Edelman born in New York, born to Jewish parents
- Stephen Redd Event 201 participant with interest in Anthrax and Ebola, and a student out of John Hopkins Center.
- Mike Ryan WHO exec with close ties to the pharma industry
- Sofia Borges UN Foundation, and in light of current ongoing staged managed crisis, Ms. Borges is black and clearly shows they care for no one color.
- Adrian Thomas Pharma executive
- Tom Inglesby Director of John Hopkins Center, that name again, the very group who the media are using to compile the statistics of this fake pandemic, seeing the picture now?
- Remember Anne Cicero mentioned twice earlier? she has been the Health Security/Chief Operating Officer for Johns Hopkins Center from 2017 onwards.

We covered in a recent show of how they run simulation games before real time events and so here is a reminder of that, and yes the same people and organizations are involved in it. Operation Blackout was a 2019 exercise simulating sabotage of civilian infrastructure, "terrorism" and psychological operations against American citizens on the day of the US 2020 Election. The private U.S.-based, Israeli-founded company Cybereason organized it with members of the DHS, FBI and the U.S. Secret Service, and also the law firm Venable. Cybereason is led by ex-members of Israel's military intelligence 8200 Unit, best known for its cyber offensives against other governments, and is advised by former top and current officials in both Israeli military intelligence and the CIA. In addition, it is funded by and partnered with top U.S. weapons manufacturer and government contractor Lockheed Martin and financial institutions with clear and direct ties to Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman and White House adviser and the president's son-in-law Jared Kushner. oh my Kushner comes up again. Cybereason's CEO, Lior Div, has openly admitted that he views his work at Cybereason as a "continuation" of his service to Israel's intelligence apparatus. The Israeli Cybereason has discreetly become a major software provider to the U.S. government and military through its direct partnership with Lockheed Martin, which followed the defense company's decision to open an office at the Israeli military's new cyber operations hub in the Negev desert. The simulation, titled "Operation Blackout," was set in a fictional U.S. swing state called "Adversaria". It pitted: a Red Team, of "ethical hackers", ethical hackers from Cybereason, academics and security professionals from the private sector. They were simulating an anarchic group's attempts to undermine democratic institutions and systems of governance, especially by creating havoc during the election, but apparently not wanting to cancel the election. The team was led by Cybereason co-founder Yonathan Striem-Amit, a former contractor for Israeli government agencies and a former operative for the elite Israeli military intelligence Unit 8200, against a Blue Team of veteran law enforcement officers from the US Secret Service, Department of Homeland Security, the FBI, and the Arlington, VA police. The opposing teams were supervised by a "white team" composed of members of Cybereason's staff and Ari Schwartz — a former member of the White House's National Security Council and the National Institute of Standards and Technology(NIST) — who set the rules of the simulation and would ultimately decide its outcome. Schwartz also used to work for the Center for Democracy and Technology (CDT), a major backer of Microsoft's ElectionGuard software. The Red Team implemented "a fantastic set of moves that demonstrated daring and creativity", including "Autonomous vehicles were leveraged...to wreak havoc at polling stations and cause many deaths and injuries" (how this is in any way "ethical hacking" is left unexplained). The Red Team also used false flag operations and psychological warfare. When the Red Team "crash autonomous buses and cars into the polling lines and polling locations", the team makes ISIS (a group not without ties to Israeli intelligence) claim responsibility. In addition "Deep fakes were used by the Red Team to impersonate the superiors of pollsters and law enforcement officers, and direct them to execute actions that benefited the Red Team. Deep fakes were used to create fake videos and spread misinformation about the candidates in the race. Accounts of media "influencers" were hacked. Telecom networks and news outlets within the fictitious states were also hacked and flooded with deepfakes, aimed at spreading disinformation and panic among U.S. citizens. However, in a somewhat curious conclusion (undermine, but not cancel), "the primary mission of the Red Team failed due to overkill. Instead of undermining the election, they forced the Blue Team to cancel the election and they caused a terrorist attack". The exercise concluded that "having clear channels of information or disinformation was very important for affecting public sentiment for both sides, including "Control of social media networks for journalists, influencers, and political figures that allowed the Red Team to easily spread misinformation through supposedly "legitimate" channels. The exercise explicitly excluded hacking election equipment from consideration to focus instead on everything else in the electoral system. Cybereason and unnamed former members of the British Government and the Metropolitan Police repeated this on December 11 2019, in Operation Blackout London. This time it was a fictitious UK city, Adversaria. "Both teams performed well, and they deployed a number of tactics and techniques throughout Operation Blackout London. However, in the end, the Red Team wasn't able to achieve its goals, and the Blue Team scored a clear victory because they were able to maintain its goals of limiting disruptions. and maintaining normalcy and open and free elections. With many excellent former government and law enforcement experts on my team, we were able to counter Red's moves and maintain public trust," said Alessandro Telami, senior director at Cybereason and Operation Blackout London Blue Team Leader. The participants were Ari Schwartz, Cybereason, Israel Barak, Sam Curry, Sanat Clugh, Yonathan Striem-Amit. For those who have followed our FRWL series this type of report will come as no surprise, in fact we could have forecasted it. This is exactly how the clowns operate, spending vast fortunes on running sinister plots via computer simulation games that always involves terror, what is wrong with these people?

So having established their simulation games often lead to fruition, we go into their next stage. THE PLAN Event 201 = Gates world Agenda 21 ID2020 = Gates Coronavirus patent = Gates Covid vaccine = Gates WHO/NIAID/CDC/UN funding = Gates Fauci/Birx/Tedros funding = Gates New Economy based on Human Activity (060606) = Gates Hypothesize a simulated global outbreak, required steps, various phases, overall timeline and expected outcomes (Rockefeller - Lock Step, 2010). Create a very contagious but super low mortality rate virus to fit the needed plan (SARS/HIV hybrid research strain created at Fort Detrick class 4 lab from 2008-2013 as part of a research project to find out why coronavirus's spread like wildfire in bats but have an extremely hard time infecting humans (hence the 4 HIV inserts, aka the missing key to infect the human ACE-2 receptor) Create a weaponized version of the virus with a much higher mortality rate as a "BACKUP plan" ready to be released in phase 3 BUT ONLY IF NEEDED (SARS/HIV/MERS weaponized tribrid strain created at Fort Detrick class 4 lab in 2015) Transport the research strain to a different class 4 lab (National Microbiology Lab in Winnipeg Canada) and have it stolen and smuggled out by China

(Shi Zhengli) on purpose and taken to China's only class 4 lab (Wuhan Institute of Virology in Wuhan China) for added plausible deniability and to help cement the wanted BACKUP public script as something to fall back on IF needed (primary script being its natural, backup script being that China created it and released it by accident) Fund all the talking heads (Fauci/Birx/Tedros...) and agencies (WHO/NIAID/CDC/UN...) that would be involved with pandemic response prior to the planned release of the research strain to control the wanted script throughout the operation. Create and fund the vaccination development and roll-out plan so its capable of being rolled out on a global scale (Gates - Decade of Vaccines: Global Vaccine Action Plan, 2010-2020) Create and fund the vaccination verification/certification protocols (Digital ID) to enforce/confirm the vaccination program after the mandatory roll-out is enacted (Gates - ID2020) Simulate the Lock Step hypothesis just prior to the planned research strain release using a real-world exercise as a final wargame to determine expected response/timelines/outcomes (Gates - Event 201, Oct 2019) Release the research strain at the Wuhan Institute of Virology itself and then blame it's released on a natural scapegoat as the wanted primary script (the Wuhan wet market, Nov 2019) Downplay the human-to-human transmission for as long as possible to allow the research strain to spread on a global scale before any country can lockdown/respond to avoid initial infection Once a country has seed infection in place, lockdown incoming/outgoing travel but keep the transmission within the country spreading for as long as possible Once enough people in a country/region are infected, enact forced quarantines/isolation for that area and expand the lockdown regions slowly over time. Over-hype the mortality rate by tying the research strain to deaths that have little to nothing to do with the actual virus to keep the fear and compliance at a maximum (if anyone dies for ANY reason and is found they have COVID consider it a COVID death & if anyone is thought to of MAYBE had symptoms of COVID to assume they have COVID and consider it a COVID death). Keep the public quarantined for as long as possible to destroy the regions economy, create civil unrest, breakdown the supply chain, and cause the start of mass food shortages, as well as cause peoples immune system to weaken due to lack of interaction with other people/bacteria (the outside world... aka the things that keeps our immune system alert and active). Downplay and attack any potential "treatments" and continue to echo that only a "cure" is viable to fight this virus (aka a vaccine) Continue to drag out the quarantine over and over and over again (in 2 week intervals) causing more and more people to eventually stand up and protest/defy them. Eventually end the phase 1 quarantine once they get enough public push-back (~June 2020), and publicly state that they still think it's "too early" to end the isolation but are going to do it anyways. Once the public go "back to normal" wait a few weeks and then continue to over-hype the research strain mortality rate (~Aug-Sept 2020), and combine it with the increase in deaths due to people dying from standard illnesses at a higher rate then normal due to having highly weakened immune systems from months of being in isolation, to help further "pad" the mortality rate and hype the upcoming phase 2 lockdown. Eventually enact phase 2 quarantines (~Oct-Nov 2020) on a even more extreme level and blame the protesters (mostly people who don't trust their government already) for the cause of the "larger" 2nd wave (we told you so, it was too early, this is all your fault cause you needed a hair cut, your freedoms have consequences...). Should this unfold in this manner the US Election would be canceled, delayed or suspended. Enforce the phase 2 quarantines at a much more extreme level, increasing the penalty for defiance (replace fines with jail time), deem ALL travel as non-essential, increase checkpoints (including military assistance), increase tracking/tracing of the population (mandatory apps), take over control of food/gas (large scale shortages) so that people can only get access to essential products/services if they are FIRST given permission. Keep the phase 2 lockdown in place for a much longer period of time than the phase 1 lockdown, continuing to destroy the global economy, further degrade the supply chain, and further amplify the food shortages, and alike. Quell any public outrage using extreme actions/force and make anyone who defies them appear as public enemy #1 to those who are willing to submit. After a rather long phase 2 lockdown (6+ months), roll-out the vaccination program + vaccine certification and make it mandatory for everyone (giving priority access to those that submitted from the start), and have those that are for it attack those that are against it saying they are a threat and the cause of all the problems (we can't go back to normal until EVERYONE takes the vaccine... people defying them are hurting our way of life and therefore are the enemy). If the majority of people go along with the agenda then let those people enter the new system (new normal) while limiting the minority that defy the agenda's ability to work/travel/live. If the majority of people go against the agenda then release the weaponized SARS/HIV/MERS tribrid strain as phase 3, a virus with a 30%+ mortality rate as a final scare to push the minority to quickly become the majority and give a final "we told you so" to those that didn't listen. Enact the new economy model (Microsoft patent 060606 - Cryptocurrency System Using Body Activity Data) which is based on human behavior and willingness to submit (tweaked version of Black Mirror's "Fifteen Million Merits") using food/water/shelter and other essentials as a weapon of enforcement of the new economic system. Basically do what we want and get rewarded (gain credits/score and gain more access to things you need to survive) or go against what we want and get penalized (lose credits/score and lose access to things you need to survive). Welcome to the New World Order.. And I would like to add that if anyone thinks that this isn't true then check out parts of China, they already have the cryptocurrency system in place in certain areas.. That is the outline of their plans and what we have to stop by outing it in as many places as possible. EVENT PIECE - GRAND ILLUSION

HOW TO MAKE POPULACE SUBSERVIANT Then we come to another stage of the program straight out of the MK Ultra handbook, with the usual Institutions all involved, Langley, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Stanford and the Hopkins center. In fact in support of a group called the American Thinker I will endorse their call they made, on calling for a boycott of all Universities, as this is where think tank policy and motivated racial thinking patterns all arise from, the fact none of these institutions pay any tax is another reason to support it. These institutions are not separate in anyway shape or form they are all interlinked and connected. Stanley Milgram (August 15, 1933 – December 20, 1984) was an American social psychologist, best known for his controversial experiment on obedience conducted in the 1960s during his professorship at Yale. Stanley Milgram born in New York and born to Jewish parents. Milgram was influenced by the events of the Holocaust, especially the trial of Adolf Eichmann, in developing the experiment. After earning a PhD in social psychology from Harvard University, he taught at Yale, Harvard, and then for most of his career as a professor at the City University of New York Graduate Center, until his death in 1984. His small-world experiment, while at Harvard, led researchers to analyze the degree of connectedness, including the six degrees of separation concept. So what is this six degrees of separation and what does it mean? it is the idea that all people are six, or fewer, social connections away from each other, also known as the 6 Handshakes rule. As a result, a chain of "a friend of a friend" statements can be made to connect any two people in a maximum of six steps. It is sometimes generalized to the average social distance being logarithmic in the size of the population, ah the term social distance arises out of this document, one must ask is it 6 degrees or 6 feet of separation that applies here, 6 feet of course is also the depth of a burial, coincidence? you decide. This concept was originally set out by Frigyes Karinthy in 1929, no surprise his parents were Jewish, he like Milgram and Soros came from Hungary. Later in his career, Milgram developed a technique for creating interactive hybrid social agents (called cyranoids?), which has since been used to explore aspects of social- and self-perception. So what are cryanoids? Are you ready for this? Cyranoids are "people who do not speak thoughts originating in their own central nervous system: Rather, the words they speak originate in the mind of another person who transmits these words to the cyranoid by radio transmission". Oops voice to head technology being spoken of by Milgram nearly a 50 years ago as a concept? it was not a concept at all, now who was it that said all technology was past not future, now you begin to understand why. In a recent show we referred to this voice to head technology interfering with key people around the world, including it was said to be affecting the Trustee Kim also. This voice to head technology has been responsible for all the channeling bs posted all over the alt media for past two decades at least. Yet Milgram is widely regarded as one of the most important figures in the history of social psychology. A Review of General Psychology survey, published in 2002, ranked Milgram as the 46th-most-cited psychologist of the 20th century. Milgram was born in 1933 in New York City (the Bronx) to Jewish parents. His parents were Adele (née Israel) and Samuel Milgram (1898–1953), who had emigrated to the United States from Romania and Hungary respectively during World War I. He was the second of three children, Milgram's immediate and extended family were both affected by the Holocaust. After the war, relatives of his who had survived Nazi concentration camps, and bore concentration camp tattoos stayed with the Milgram family in New York for a time. His Bar Mitzvah speech was on the subject of the plight of the European Jews, and the impact that World War II events would have on Jewish people around the world. He said, upon becoming a man under Jewish law: "As I find happiness in joining the ranks of Israel, the knowledge of the tragic suffering of my fellow Jews, makes this an occasion to reflect upon the heritage of my people, which now becomes mine. I shall try to understand my people, and do my best to share the responsibilities which history has placed upon all of us." He later wrote to a friend from childhood: "I should have been born into the German-speaking Jewish community of Prague in 1922 and died in a gas chamber some 20 years later. How I came to be born in the Bronx Hospital, I'll never quite understand." Milgram's interest in the Holocaust had its basis in what his biographer, Professor Thomas Blass, referred to as Milgram's "lifelong identification with the Jewish people. Author Kirsten Fermaglich wrote that Milgram as an adult had "a personal conflict as a Jewish man who perceived himself both as an outsider, a victim of the Nazi destruction, and as an insider, as a scientist." As we revealed in an earlier show it was revealed most of the scientists involved in this level of research, creating atomic weapons and the Paperclip crew, were far from being Germans, but were all by and large Jewish. Those heinous human experiments carried out in concentration camps, some of which were done to Jewish people, we subsequently found out those experiments on the Jewish, were done by their own religious based kind. I also wondered why they were called concentration camps, kind of an odd name, as one concentrating requires one to think, what were they suppose to be thinking about? 1630s, "action of bringing to a center, act of collecting or combining into or about a central point," Concentration camp is from 1901, originally "compound for noncombatants in a war zone, except it wasn't from that period at all and dates back even further and brings in another key piece to our From Russia with Love series. It dates back to 1756 and known as the Black hole of Calcutta, which is India and was a dungeon in Fort William, Calcutta whereby resistance to the French led forces, not British or Dutch, all three countries of which at this time, was owned and run by the Rothschild's clan. The Rothschild's clan and their minions not only ran the East Indies ships but all of the slavery ships as well. They arrested the East Indies Tea Company people including Indian civilians and forced 146 people into an 18 by 14 foot box, and 123 out 146 prisoners died overnight. Alexandra stated that Milgram's Jewish identity led to his focus on the Holocaust and his obedience-to-authority research. He shared this as well with Herbert Winer, one of his obedience study subjects, who noted after speaking to Milgram about the experiment that "Milgram was very Jewish. I was Jewish, we talked about this, there was obviously a motive behind neutral research." Milgram married his wife, Alexandra, in a ceremony at the Brotherhood Synagogue in Greenwich Village in Manhattan on December 10, 1961, and they had two children, Michele and Marc. Milgram's father worked as a baker, providing a modest income for his family until his death in 1953 (upon which Stanley's mother took over the bakery). Milgram attended PS 77 and James Monroe High School in the Bronx (which he graduated from in three years), and excelled academically and was a great leader among his peers. One of Milgram's classmates at James Monroe High School was Philip Zimbardo, the architect of the Stanford prison experiment. Zimbardo was said to be born in New York of Sicilian immigrants, but it was said he was often mistaken as Jewish. Zimbardo himself took part in the study, playing the role of "prison superintendent" who could mediate disputes between guards and prisoners. He instructed guards to find ways to dominate the prisoners, not with physical violence, but with other tactics, verging on torture, such as sleep deprivation and punishment with solitary confinement. Later in the experiment, as some guards became more aggressive, taking away prisoners' cots (so that they had to sleep on the floor), and forcing them to use buckets kept in their cells as toilets, and then refusing permission to empty the buckets, neither the other guards nor Zimbardo himself intervened. Knowing that their actions were observed but not rebuked, guards considered that they had implicit approval for such actions. The object was to dehumanize people taking part in the study. Milgram and Zimbardo also shared an affinity for the popular television program Candid Camera and an admiration for its creator, Allen Funt. Which was another social study program of essentially terrorizing people or making them look stupid, Mr. Funt was born in New York and born to Jewish parents also. By the time he was college age, his family had moved to nearby Queens. In 1954, Milgram received his bachelor's degree in political science from Queens College in New York, which he attended tuition-free. He also studied at Brooklyn College, where he received A-grades in "Psychology of Personality" and "An Eclectic Approach to Social Psychology." He applied to a PhD program in social psychology at Harvard University, and was initially rejected due to an insufficient background in psychology (he had not taken any undergraduate courses in psychology at Queens College). He was eventually accepted to Harvard in 1954 after first enrolling as a student in Harvard's Office of Special Students. This tells you he was profiled, he failed to get in by the correct methodology, but was added in due to being Jewish and also the correct profile for the agency led programs. In 1963, Milgram submitted the results of his obedience experiments in the article "Behavioral Study of Obedience." In the ensuing controversy, the American Psychological Association held up his application for membership for a year because of questions about the ethics of his work, but eventually did grant him full membership. So Milgram and Zimbardo were questioned on their methods and ethics and yet allowed to continue? at whose request? is the great question. Ten years later, in 1974, Milgram published Obedience to Authority. He won the AAAS Prize for Behavioral Science Research in 1964, mostly for his work on the social aspects of obedience. Inspired in part by the 1961 trial of Adolf Eichmann, his models were later also used to explain the 1968 My Lai Massacre (including authority training in the military, depersonalizing the "enemy" through racial and cultural differences, etc.). This depersonalizing was done via MK Ultra experiments relating back to the CIA and was covered in FRWL 7. He produced a film depicting his experiments, which are considered classics of social psychology. An article in American Psychologist sums up Milgram's obedience experiments: In Milgram's basic paradigm, a subject walks into a laboratory believing that s/he is about to take part in a study of memory and learning. After being assigned the role of a teacher, the subject is asked to teach word associations to a fellow subject (who in reality is a collaborator of the experimenter). This is eerily the same as the CIA MK Ultra program, whereby people think they are going for a job interview, by the third visit they are hooked into the programs, as assassins, Manchurian candidates or monarch females. The teaching method, however, is unconventional, administering increasingly higher electric shocks to the learner. Once the presumed shock level reaches a certain point, the subject is thrown into a conflict. On the one hand, the strapped learner demands to be set free, he appears to suffer pain, and going all the way may pose a risk to his health. On the other hand, the experimenter, if asked, insists that the experiment is not as unhealthy as it appears to be, and that the teacher must go on. In sharp contrast to the expectations of professionals and laymen alike, some 65% of all subjects continue to administer shocks up to the very highest levels. More recent tests of the experiment have found that it only works under certain conditions; in particular, when participants believe the results are necessary for the "good of science." A full on empath of which there are few on this planet in comparison to global population, would not be able to carry out this experiment, not just the higher frequencies, but the lower also. They don't want empath's, they are looking for psycho-paths, of which there are many in terms of the global population, due to the more subtle versions of MK Ultra programming. According to Milgram, "the essence of obedience consists in the fact that, a person comes to view himself as the instrument for carrying out another person's wishes, and he therefore no longer sees himself as responsible for his actions. People can delude themselves they are not responsible for being the conduit for the actions or intentions of others, but that is a cop out and in essence you have become the collector of karma for the benefit of others. Once this critical shift of viewpoint has occurred in the person, all of the essential features of obedience follow. Thus, the major problem for the subject is to recapture control of his own regnant processes, once he has committed them to the purposes of the experimenter. Besides this hypothetical agentic state, Milgram proposed the existence of other factors accounting for the subject's obedience: politeness, awkwardness of withdrawal, absorption in the technical aspects of the task, the tendency to attribute impersonal quality to forces that are essentially human, a belief that the experiment served a desirable end, the sequential nature of the action, and anxiety. Notice they call it agentic state, they are brain washing you into being the proxy agent, which is exactly what the Open Source program ran by CIA agent Robert David Steele is bringing forth to the people. He stated, the people become the intelligence and so in essence, agentic, and once that is achieved they will close down all agencies for cost savings, and have millions of agentic's doing their work for them from a central hub. A competing explanation of Milgram's results invokes belief perseverance as the underlying factor. What people cannot be counted on is, to realize that a seemingly benevolent authority is in fact malevolent, even when they are faced with overwhelming evidence, which suggests that this authority is indeed malevolent. The classic cases of this is Government, there is absolutely zero evidence any government has done that is solely beneficial for and by the people, yet people vote every 4 years, which is a loop, to continue the same program, names may change but the system or program remains. The second case is church and religion, there is zero evidence of any of it being beneficial for and by the people on any level, but people by into the savior returning (insert whatever name) and none of it makes any sense, yet 4.5B pray to an external source, they have zero proof exists. Hence, the underlying cause for the subjects' striking conduct could well be conceptual, and not the alleged 'capacity of man to abandon his humanity, as he merges his unique personality into larger institutional structures, this is evidence of splitting the person. Inspired by the horrific events of Nazi Germany, Milgram's obedience experiments have been used to explain a range of social influences on the individual, including how police interrogators can get innocent people to confess to crimes they did not commit. At the same time, these experiments have come under attack. Some critics questioned whether subjects sensed the unreality of the situation, others questioned the relevance of the laboratory setting to the real world. The most devastating criticisms involved the ethics of the basic experimental design. Professor Milgram, for his part, felt that such misgivings were traceable to the unsavory nature of his results: "Underlying the criticism of the experiment," Milgram wrote, "is an alternative model of human nature, one holding that when confronted with a choice between hurting others and complying with authority, normal people reject authority." So, lets summarize this piece up before next category, Stanley Milgram who was Jewish and said to have been influenced by the events of the Holocaust, and in particular Adolf Eichmann and his mistreatment of the Jewish people. Who then goes onto enhancing the work of the so called SS Nazi who we are told were German, when all proof points otherwise, into a full on mind control program for the rest of the populace? Does that make any sense whatsoever, because surely if Mr. Milgram was influenced by events of the Holocaust, surely he would sooner work on preventing it ever happening again, not becoming to new Adolf Eichmann, unless of course as From Russia with Love states, it was the now named "Jewish people" who were doing these experiments all along. These faceless and hidden men and women are now being shown into the light for more to see. FACELESS MAN

Daniel Raver looks back: Even though Milgram's personal interests were diverse, his greatest contribution to psychology came through one set of experiments, but in that set he contributed monumentally. He helped justify a science some dismiss as unimportant, contributed to the understanding of humanity, and, even if by way of attacks against him, contributed to the consideration of the treatment of research participants. In 1970–71, Milgram conducted experiments which attempted to find a correlation between media consumption (in this case, watching television) and anti-social behavior. The experiment presented the opportunity to steal money, donate to charity, or neither, and tested whether the rate of each choice was influenced by watching similar actions in the ending of a specially crafted episode of the popular series Medical Center. In 1977 Milgram began piloting an experimental procedure, that aimed to operationalize the mind-body fusion fantasy explored in the Edmond Rostand play Cyrano de Bergerac. In the story, Cyrano supplies Christian with amorous prose so that they may jointly woo Roxane (each being incapable, given their respective physical and linguistic limitations, of doing so on their own). Milgram trained speech shadowers to replicate in real-time, spontaneous prose supplied by a remote "source" by-way-of discreet radio transmission during face-to-face dialogue with naïve "interactants." Oh dear speech shadowers, what a term that is and implications are wide ranging. This is the voice to head they have used on religious followers, people with the dis ease known as Schizophrenia or split personality disorder the more modern term, used for channeling as well. But it is my hypothesis that all mental patients have been afflicted by this technology and or MK Ultra mind control techniques, and that all so called mental disorders can be rectified by the removal of this technology. Part of the MK Ultra is about splitting a persons brain into several sections, my understanding it is of up to 12, some say more but I don't believe that is possible plus with 12 personalities it also fits into the 12 + 1 theory I have revealed many times in our shows. This type of mind control was used to develop super soldiers and undetectable agents in the field, to then trigger them into doing a task and subsequently their dirty work, from John Hinckley to the aptly named Batman theater shooting James Holmes, neither would have carried out those tasks from their own volition. The movie being shown was the Dark Night rises and is part of the Batman series, which displays Batman in good light, but Batman is a Dark Elf that has plagued this planet a long time. It's home base is called Gotham and is connected to New York, which is not a coincidence, I am just waiting for the single light beam from the tower there to have the Batman symbol in the sky to confirm it. But the dark night was not rising, but falling and that night turned to day on March 21st 2020. In homage to Cyrano, he referred to the hybrid agent formed by combining the words of one individual with the body of another as a "cyranoïd." This in essence is host possession or walk ins, which I believe a majority of people on this planet are infected by, via alcohol abuse, drugs psychedelics or ayuhasca related and religious based programming. Once a host is inside the vessel it is then programmed into a hive mind mentality and the machine runs the host, at this point that person is lost, unless they recognize they are actually not themselves, and work to counteract it and peel back the personalities and the main possession, and become themselves again. In his studies, interactants repeatedly failed to detect that their interlocutors were merely speech shadowing for third parties, implicitly and explicitly attributing to them communicative autonomy. Milgram referred to this phenomenon as the "cyranoïd illusion." This illusion held even in circumstances involving high disparity between shadower and source, such as when he sourced for child shadowers while being interviewed by panels of teachers (naïve to the deception) tasked with assessing each child's intellectual abilities, this is an example of profiling. Milgram hoped that the cyranoïd method, could evolve into a useful means of interactively exploring phenomena related to social behavior and self-perception (e.g., racial, gender, and age-based stereotyping and behavioral confirmation).

Though he continued to develop the methodology through 1984 (the year of his death), he never prepared a formal publication detailing his cyranoid experiments. That is pure lies and comes under the banner of classified and the National Security Act, which is essentially an Act to protect the CIA and NSA from all public and government scrutiny of their actions. In 2014, social psychologists at the London School of Economics published the first replications of Milgram's original pilots. Robb Mitchell has explored cyranoids as an experiential learning tool within the classroom (having children shadow for teachers during teaching exercises). Cyranoids have also been used in installation art to explore social experiences, whereby people encounter those familiar to them through the bodies of strangers. In 1986, musician Peter Gabriel wrote a song called "We do what we're told (Milgram's 37)," referring mistakenly to the percentage of test subjects who refused to continue administering shocks. Gabriel's intent was optimistic: not everyone was willing to obey authority and shock to the highest level. The actual percentage was 35, as quoted in an article in SPIN magazine in September, 1986. If an authority figure ordered you to deliver a 400-volt electrical shock to another person, would you follow orders? Most people would answer with an adamant "no." however, the Milgram obedience experiment aimed to prove otherwise. During the 1960s, Yale University psychologist Stanley Milgram conducted a series of obedience experiments that led to some surprising results. These results offer a compelling and disturbing look at the power of authority and obedience. More recent investigations cast doubt on some of the implications of Milgram's findings, and even question the results and procedures themselves. Despite its problems, the study has, without question, significantly impacted psychology. "The social psychology of this century reveals a major lesson: often it is not so much the kind of person a man is, as the kind of situation in which he finds himself that determines how he will act." - Stanley Milgram, 1974. Milgram started his experiments in 1961, shortly after the trial of the World War II criminal Adolph Eichmann had begun. Eichmann's defense that he was merely following instructions when he ordered the deaths of millions of Jews roused Milgram's interest. In his 1974 book "Obedience to Authority," Milgram posed the question, "Could it be that Eichmann and his million accomplices in the Holocaust were just following orders? Could we call them all accomplices?" The participants in the most famous variation of the Milgram experiment were 40 men recruited using newspaper ads, in exchange for their participation, each person was paid $4.50. Milgram developed an intimidating shock generator, with shock levels starting at 30 volts and increasing in 15-volt increments all the way up to 450 volts. The many switches were labeled with terms including "slight shock," "moderate shock" and "danger: severe shock." The final two switches were labeled simply with an ominous "XXX." Each participant took the role of a "teacher" who would then deliver a shock to the "student" whenever an incorrect answer was given. This is the terms they give to the Waldorf Steiner teachers, they are not actually teachers, but trainers to handle the students and replace the parents. While the participant believed that he was delivering real shocks to the student, the "student" was a confederate in the experiment who was simply pretending to be shocked. As the experiment progressed, the participant would hear the learner plead to be released or even complain about a heart condition. Once they reached the 300-volt level, the learner would bang on the wall and demand to be released. Beyond this point, the learner became completely silent and refused to answer any more questions. The experimenter then instructed the participant to treat this silence as an incorrect response and deliver a further shock. Most participants asked the experimenter whether they should continue. The experimenter issued a series of commands to prod the participant along: "Please continue." "The experiment requires that you continue." "It is absolutely essential that you continue." "You have no other choice; you must go on." The measure of obedience was the level of shock that the participant was willing to deliver. How far do you think most participants were willing to go? When Milgram posed this question to a group of Yale University students, it was predicted that no more than 3 out of 100 participants would deliver the maximum shock, in reality, 65 percent of the participants in Milgram's study delivered the maximum shocks. So, 65% of the people didn't trust their own self and carried on, yet when they did the toilet paper trial only 35% complied, quite a drop from previous studies. Of the 40 participants in the study, 26 delivered the maximum shocks while 14 stopped before reaching the highest levels. It is important to note that many of the subjects became extremely agitated, distraught, and angry at the experimenter, but they continued to follow orders all the way to the end. Due to concerns about the amount of anxiety experienced by many of the participants, everyone was debriefed at the end of the experiment. The researchers explained the procedures and the use of deception. However, many critics of the study have argued that many of the participants were still confused about the exact nature of the experiment. Milgram later surveyed the participants and found that 84 percent were glad to have participated, while only 1 percent regretted their involvement, interesting there is no description of other 15%, and there is that figure again. Why did so many of the participants in this experiment perform a seemingly sadistic act when instructed by an authority figure? According to Milgram, there are some situational factors that can explain such high levels of obedience: The physical presence of an authority figure dramatically increased compliance. The fact that Yale (a trusted and authoritative academic institution) sponsored the study led many participants to believe that the experiment must be safe. The selection of teacher and learner status seemed random. Participants assumed that the experimenter was a competent expert. The shocks were said to be painful, not dangerous. Later experiments conducted by Milgram indicated, that the presence of rebellious peers dramatically reduced obedience levels. When other people refused to go along with the experimenter's orders, 36 out of 40 participants refused to deliver the maximum shocks. In 2009, researchers conducted a study designed to replicate Milgram's classic obedience experiment. In an article published in the APS Observer, psychologist Jerry Burger (born of) of Santa Clara University and author of the study, described how relevant Milgram's study is today: "The haunting black-and-white images of ordinary citizens delivering what appear to be dangerous, if not deadly, electric shocks and the implications of the findings for atrocities like the Holocaust and Abu Ghraib are not easily dismissed. Yet because Milgram's procedures are clearly out-of-bounds by today's ethical standards, many questions about the research have gone unanswered. Chief among these is one that inevitably surfaces when I present Milgram's findings to students: "Would people still act that way today?" Burger made several alterations to Milgram's experiment. The maximum shock level was 150-volts as opposed to the original 450-volts. Participants were also carefully screened to eliminate those who might experience adverse reactions to the experiment. The results of the new experiment revealed that participants obeyed at the same rate that they did when Milgram conducted his original study more than 40 years ago. WE DO WHAT WE ARE TOLD

So I hope this gives you a clearer picture of their plans, how sinister these people are, wasting vast fortunes of our money on these think tank psychopaths, their conferences and simulations of death and destruction. Deep questions need to be asked on ID2020, which is chipping, mandatory vaccines and cryptocurrency plans of both Q and Trump, are they aware and are they going to stop it? is the only questions we need answering at this point. Because arresting Maxwells, Hanks, Madonna, Podesta, Epstein's will all be irrelevant at this point. Should their digital ID, microchipping and cryptocurrency take place we will have passed into a phase even Orwell couldn't envision, go and watch the series Continuum, it is all in that series. But this is what we had all warned about in the Clowns in Panic show last year, as the people sleep walk into a totalitarian nightmare living, where all aspects of your lives is controlled and freedoms will go for good. SS, unemployment, voting, medicine, drivers license, watching tv, computer or phone, access to your money in a bank all dependant upon you having the vaccine and the microchip, and if you think that is far fetched? you need to relisten and think again on a deeper level. If in March you were told you had to wear a mask to shop for groceries, would you have laughed and said don't be silly? If in March you were told you had to quit your job and stay at home, would you have laughed and said don't be silly? If in March you were told you can go out, but only in designated places and would have to be six feet apart, would you have laughed and said don't be silly. If in March you were told all three of the above and told others, you would have been labeled a conspiracy theorist, would you not? Totalitarianism does not slam you in the face, it has a silent steady creep, that creep is not silent or steady anymore, and is escalating due to their panic of losing control. It is up to us all to stop this latest attack and step forward into the void the old failed system has left behind. Silence and complicity is not an option when countering them now, we must be forceful and stern in our efforts to first get life back to something resembling normal, then chart a path of a better world for us all. The exposure of this and other plans shows all now, these so called elites, their puppets governments and think tanks, do not and never will have our best interests at heart, or anywhere else on the vessel. The only solution is, we learn, build and develop to look after ourselves and each other, and build on a platform we have already begun with The Peoples Club. They create the problems but WE provide the solutions, not them. THINK DIFFERENTLY
