

THI-SHOW TRANSCRIPT 2023-10-12

BLUEPRINT REPORT 8 October 2023 That song was played and sung for the first time by Martin and Judith on the final night in Dublin recently. A series of composite words and sentences from our show, that covers the essence of THI and it's real meaning and purpose very well. Thanks to Martin and Judith for entertaining us and we look forward to hearing more from you. These are the words of the song I hope you all enjoy it as much as we did. It's beacon time, to shine our light bright so bright Can you feel the light shining from inside? Don't you think it's kind of a miracle, we're still alive? Don't you think it's kind of a miracle, we're alive at all? Imagine yourself, balanced in and out Acting in love, caring with love As within as without, you are the one changing the world with every thought, emotion and word You are source, you are the strongest force To shift reality, light up light up Shine from within cos', It's, beacon time, o shine our light bright so bright Can you feel the light shining from inside? You share you care Lay bare to dare to, think for yourself Help others to grow from inside out You may and can step out of time and see and be all of yourself De-loop and rise in order to shine your light because it's Go within, look within yourself for every one of your skills Your self is so desperate to live and to love And then give it to you and the world around you And you will see what can be Let go of the world as you know it It has already ended and grasp it what it means that all lives matter, all lives matter and grasp it that it's beacon time to shine our light bright so bright Can you feel the light shining from inside Dare to turn on your beacon Don't fear to love but love to love. Do this one step and you are out of control and roll out your heart because it's beacon time.

BOOK TEAM: The Romanian and Hebrew translations of the Blueprint book need only the cover text for completion. The French translations of The Divine Masculine and Divine Feminine booklet and the Consent booklet are on the communal gathering's website. The Polish translation of the Blueprint is on the Blueprint website, along with the French and English versions. The German translation of the Blueprint is nearing completion, and the German translation of From His Story to Our Story Volume 1 and the Consent Booklet are in the proofreading stage. The Bulgarian translation of the Blueprint is also in the proofreading stage. From His Story to Our Story Volume 3 is being edited and reviewed after a hiatus.

RESEARCH TEAM: The Blueprint Research team appreciates that the European members have been attending our meetings up to midnight their time and the US members using their lunch hours. To find a comfortable balance, we will be moving meetings to Sunday mornings. The next meeting will be on Sunday, October 15th. Changes and the links will be posted on the MeWe Blueprint page and in the chat, as well as on Trello. The database has some missing information and is still being researched. If you have submitted names we would like the following data of the influencer's website, email address, both personal and the organization they represent along with their title in that organization. We also need Twitter, Facebook, Linked In, youTube channels, mailing addresses and phone numbers. Some influencers are on Whats App, Gab, Telegram, and Instagram. We gather whatever we find, then work to fill in those gaps for all names in the database. Often the preferred method for them is by a contact form on their website.

Please forward any of this information to us if you can as it helps us move forward faster. On October 1st, the team emailed Thomas List number 3, with 25 influencer names and their contact information. We will send future lists in whatever quantity he prefers. The official cover letter for emailing the Blueprint will be posted to MeWe Blueprint Action Group. Users will be asked to agree to provide to the Research Team: 1) influencer names, 2) contact information and 3) report any replies received. This format will assist us to correlate it to the spreadsheet so we can track our progress. Journalistic media will be the next phase of the research with discussion to follow on Alt Media v. Mainstream Media. We welcome suggestions from members. Please send them by MeWe to @Mama Zenja.

The Following is the list of Books and PDFs: REPORT OF BOOKS AND PDFs TO BE SENT (Thomas):

BOOKS:

1. Thomas Melville
2. Joe Rogan
3. Calin Georgescu
4. Kerry Cassidy
5. Vivek Ramaswamy
6. Whitney Webb
7. Senator Michael Webber
8. Senator Josh Hawley
9. Kareem Weaver
10. President of Ghana (His Eminence Nana Addo Dankwa Akufo-Addo)

PDFs to be sent this week:

MEDIA TEAM: Our meeting this week followed more of an overview of our progress so far and an open discussion on what we would like to see emerging with the team. It was interesting to observe the flow that is emerging unconsciously now, as our choice of memes daily seem to all be connected in varying ways, though some are THI memes, Blueprint memes or TPC memes. They are connecting dots together all in their own unique way. Almost telling a story. This helps a lot with the Tik Tok account as they can all go into one video together, which is how tik Tok works. We discussed our role within aiding the research team and how we can facilitate them more on targeting influencers, or posting comments that contain the Blueprint messages. So, we have begun the task of choosing lesser-known influencers with small followings anywhere from 4 to 500 hundred up to 10 thousand, as they have an audience too and many are aligned with the need for change and the Blueprint ethos. So, this too will broaden the reach and they may well be the ones that notice us in their comments. We moved on to a discussion on being seen, and how simply carrying the Blueprint book through airports and while in a restaurant or coffee shop, was garnering inroads to discussion with the public. We then came up with the idea of thinking in the lines of merchandise, tee-shirts, beanies or simply stickers. Could this be a new TPC enterprise? But mostly what we came to innerstand was, there are no limits on how the message gets out there and certainly no right or wrong ways to do it. If we act with professionalism and from the heart, the doors will open, and opportunities will grow. If you have any ideas that you feel could help us venture into new areas, please feel free to contact Susan on mewe. We are always happy to hear them. We have also created now many French Blueprint memes and would love anyone in any European country to send us the relevant version in their language, for any of the current memes or indeed new ones. These can then be circulated on your own social media as well as within our own sites. Each language carries its own frequency and can connect with people on a different level that may attract their attention. It also personalizes it to your own country of origin and further aids the seed to go further.

WEB TEAM REPORT: The web team continues to work on multiple fronts bringing together technical requirements and human creativity. Our update this month is not about what we have done since the last report, but instead it is a call for other people with technical skills to join the team. We are interested in people with experience in managing or supporting IT infrastructure such as dedicated application servers, email services, integrations between various IT systems and setting up and consuming various cloud and online services. We have a few WordPress websites which require regular updates and maintenance, as well as additional resource and creativity to birth new ideas to present, promote and take forward what THI is all about. Expertise in any of the above as well as technical curiosity in a wide range of areas will certainly help, however just as important if not more important is an ability to see and understand the bigger technical picture and a willingness to learn as required. To join us or to find out more please contact Ovidiu on MeWe. Thank you in advance.

An update from me: Following the compilation of this report, 7 books have been sent out as of last today to: Kerry Cassidy, Senators Josh Hawley, Michael Webber and Vivek Ramaswamy, Kareem Weaver, Calin Georgescu plus the President of Ghana Mr Akufo-Addo. As of Tuesday all of the pdf's were sent out with the new email format now rectified by the web team.

We have had some feedback from the initial sending's of the pdf. Name: Clif High Email:gotohell@fuckyou.com Subject: Blueprint feedback Message: piss off. Our team would like to thank Clif High for showing to the world his special level of uncultured behaviour. Out of the hundreds who have been shown the Blueprint privately, all received it well, no matter which country they were from. But you will always have the few, who cannot think for themselves, who get envious of others and denigrate them, without even reading it. Sadly for Clif, his only source of intel and input is a CIA algorithm machine, and as much as he won't like it, our data keeps coming up in his reports. The old adage is; some people you just can't reach, but then if their only source of thinking is an algorithm machine, you get bot level answers back. The Humanity consciousness field will remember you Clif.

For those of you who remember our water solution in the Blueprint, this story will be of immense interest. MIT researchers have created a solar-powered desalination device that can make seawater drinkable for less than the cost of US tap water. One hopes that is not put in the hands of Langley contractors, but is given to the people to run without shareholders or CEO's. This is a lifesaving device and should not be used for profiteering or racketeering in an advanced society. Maybe one of our members or a team, could compile and draft a letter to MIT, along with our Solution about water in the Blueprint and see what feedback we can get.

OPEN DISCUSSION TOPICS AND QUESTIONS: OVERVIEW: THE SUM OF THE WHOLE IS GREATER THAN THE PARTS: Often people hesitate to participate because they are not sure what they can contribute, are uncertain about success or just don't know what it would be like working with a group of people they don't know well. Making the time, doing the work and keeping communication open, take commitment. Then there's the bonus of the shadow work that heals the soul and supercharges the team. Having said this, the personal growth and interconnectedness that occurs, when working as a team is manifold and brings its own riches and rewards. Many of us sitting in the Blueprint zooms have come because we listened to our hearts and made a decision to overcome our shyness, awkwardness and indeed sometimes a feeling of being less than or without knowledge or skills needed to take on such a big task. All their programs running deeply within us I might add. There is a great desire in us all for the chance for change to emerge, and our minds and hearts have always steered us towards truth. We have faced many hurdles in the race to uncover the knowledge, many of us losing people along the way. This can work in two ways: It can cause us to slow down and retreat from society, or it can propel us into positions of having to face our own inner demons to become one with the message of truth and the frequency it provides. That frequency is freedom. Learning to commune together as one is a challenge at times, as we must overcome the hurdle of zoom meetings, which can make us feel less connected and can dampen our voice for a while. But we are all learning that union with a common purpose and goal outsmarts technology and bonds form, hearts open and voices begin to emerge from quiet corners. Navigating time zones is another hurdle to overcome, but in general we have managed to break the time barriers and rise in vertical time together no matter what the clock says. Those seats hold but a few of us and we have been holding space for you to come and join us, as we know there are many that felt as we did in the beginning. The beginnings are always difficult to step into. Though many of us found the procrastination was far more uncomfortable than the action of doing. The heart space that has been created now is full of joy and the miracle of creating intention, has brought a sense of flow and creativity within the groups. That is bearing fruits of new cohesiveness and togetherness, that holds deep riches for personal growth and empowerment to one, which then becomes all. We are learning to unfurl our petals and step into the light and indeed be the light. We invite you all to do the same, follow your heart and your desire for change and become part of the great chance for change now. We are better together, we block their flow and our river overflows drowning out their noise, their programs, their power. There is a time for everything in the natural rhythm of life. This is your chance to beat your own drum within our group and be part of the future of humanity.

Before we go into the final piece, I wish everyone to take the opportunity to have deepest sympathy with the Israeli and Palestinian people, following what has taken place there this past week. Now is not the time to point fingers, although rest assured that will come next week. But spend a minute in their shoes, the panic the fear and sheer terror of what is unfolding. Be with them and for them in the next minute, thank you. Have thoughts for our known Jewish members Ohad and William at this painful time.

Given what we have just done, perhaps this next piece is more apt to question now? WHAT IS HUMAN? This was written 3-4 years ago with some additions and was considered a powerful piece that hit people right between the eyes. Has it had an effect? Are we seeing now the full evidence of what was presented? You decide. What is human? a strange question to ask under normal circumstances, but can it be defined? what have we done to define it? With the varying cultures, most of which was created for us, all of them in some way are exclusive not inclusive, riddled with errant ways, masks, false his story and a false present story. But, that is changing rapidly now. Each culture presented with an image, none are free and all conform to some ancient book or ritual passed down by the dark forces. I have covered most cultures and peoples around the world and not put them in a good light as a whole, why? do I really have to answer that question? you can all see why, but many refuse to face the reality. The original cult as it was called way back when, was the solar cult of the URs, it is the origin of the world culture, if only people followed that path and culture, we wouldn't need shows and pieces like this. But we have a world riddled in poverty, a world where the many don't have the basics in life, many people labeled as savages or third world without understanding the connotations of what is being said. The western world riddled in greed, over indulgence and falsehoods and if you want to see real savages, look at social media, particularly in the west. People think the Western world is ran by white people, it is emphatically not. It is ran by Jewish EL-ites, with Jewish programs designed to crush the white race. The Western world is also ran by psychopaths in the unintelligent agencies, again operated by the Jewish EL-ite. People riddled with insecurity, bitterness, sniping at each other, inflammatory comments or posts designed to get them likes or comments, laden with drama all with the intent of projecting their own failures onto other people, be it friends, family, social media friends, the government, the deep state, the cabal, the illuminati, the order plus some who blame off world, that is the top and bottom line of it. Truth becomes a byword to the low self-esteem, insecure and vessels riddled with malignant venom of their own making, their lives are shit, dark and devoid of humanity, because the truth hurts them so much. Because what comes with truth is, personal responsibility, which is a no no for far too many whether awake or asleep. People who are intent on making others accountable, and yet neglect their own accountability or being accountable as well, social media is riddled with it. Most people walk past or step over the homeless in the street, because they are seen as lesser people, but they are no different to you, but with the comparative and competitive mindset, they are seen as lesser people. Which is no different to the working class frowning on people on benefits, no different to the middle class frowning on the working class, no different of the upper class frowning on the middle class, no different of the elite frowning upon the upper class, no different for the order frowning on the elite families, no different to the former trustee frowning on us all, nobody told us to do that, we just did it. How many people in the world genuinely care that 900k children go missing in America each year, 49k children die each day, 1.3B have no electricity, 1B have no clean water, over 3B don't have a decent home, yes our members have heard about it, but did your life change because of it? did it cause you to be more grateful of what you have, not what you haven't? Back then, the TPC donations sent a package of food basics, medicine and child essentials to a small village in Venezuela, after their country was ransacked by the same clowns running and ruining this country. A small gesture, it didn't require much funding and was a godsend to that village, much can be done with little, yet people feel you need a lot to do much, it is the mindset. You have lawyers charging $2-300 an hour to read or write, people charging thousands of dollars for consultations and fake presentations, I heard one story of someone charging $75K for that line of work recently, that's 3 years pay for the average service worker in this country, yet $75K can feed a whole village for a year in most cases, it's all about perspective. Examples in new age style social media people, presenting themselves as spiritualists and then charging $2-400 to hear one line of kumbaya bs after another. One member in our group back then charged people $2000 to meet and greet him, it beggars belief, goddess this, angel that, starseeds like they are the only ones who came from the stars, we all did, the arrogance is astounding. We had millions of love and light people in America in the late 60's, did the world become better place? no, we have billions extolling the virtue of the church, religion and god, all praying for salvation, has the world changed with that program? No, it has turned this planet into a war zone. So neither of those programs worked to bring a better world, why? because it was all fake is why, only those in denial would repeat those programs and expect them to work. Many are still asking for a 2000-year-old dead man to become a zombie and return to save them, it's madness, ignoring the fact of why would he want to come back? you all ignored him and left him to die 2000 years ago, is that harsh, yes, but it is the truth. The real story of Jesus whether real or not, is that the people never saved him then, what chance would he have now? With a baying mob of internet warriors who believe everything, except when it comes to the truth. I could give and spend a whole show on what is wrong and how we are also responsible for that wrong, and yes many will point out it is the government, agencies, the illuminati who have done this all to us, that is the lie or at best partially true. We are them and they are us, but reality bites as most was done by us, due to lack of care for our fellow men, women and children. The failing to address that, leads to what we have now, a free for all in chaos, confusion, anger, bitterness, envy and riddled in the worst malignancy of humanity, the self. What is human? do you know? what lies beyond our own self-entitled bubble world? do you see? do you feel? do you sense? do you have real empathy? and the kicker is, do you care? Words often lie, words have spells, most of which are oblivious to all but the devious amongst us, but actions don't. In this current time/space vibration, those lies, hidden agendas, masks, projections don't work too well, all of it is being exposed on a massive scale, on every single level, and what you see, is very ugly no matter where you are from. The reason being is most people on this planet are fake, yes many pretend to be all love and light, throwing out love emojis and memes, but inside they are far from it. If that wasn't a correct assessment, the world would be a much better place, it's not, all can see that now, whether awake or not. The letter addressed to the top order on this planet was stark, in its condemnation of their inability to follow a simple plan and look after the treasures that belonged to us all. But if you paid attention and listened closely enough, that letter could well have been addressed to us as well. You see we are no different on every level of society, in every class of society, in every culture of society, in every religion, color or gender of society, the letter was no different to the Cassandra letter addressed to the alt media, none whatsoever. Now you can ignore all that and humanity is adept at ignoring things, both externally and internally or face reality and the brutal truth. We have failed as a collective, of what it means to be human, me included, once a problem is established and the finger pointing away from you stops, then it becomes about solutions to fixing the problem. But there is hope as well as many are now starting to act in better ways, using their energy to improve things for the all, not just the self. In our own group there are many wonderful examples, of people accepting their own responsibility and striving to improve themselves and working towards helping others. I won't list them as we still have comparative mindset people within and outside the group crying about favoritism, the problem is not that they are favorites, the problem is you and your own unaddressed insecurity, fix it, it is destroying you, not me or anyone else, that is your responsibility. Many people have helped me to do this job more efficiently than I was previously, for the people who gave $1 a month to some who gave $1000 a month, I am grateful to you all, including to those who couldn't give in terms of financial support, they gave in their energy of supporting me in bringing about a change, there has to be a near 180 change on many levels, as all the previous model has failed on all levels. Some complain about me and yet none of them would do this work for 5 minutes, they know that deep down, but the comparative mind runs through many people's vessel like a malignant cancer cell. The gist of those who complain is, they wish they had the vision, balls and gumption to do what I do, but never had the drive or vision to do so. So rather than trying to elevate themselves into a similar position, they take the easy way out and try and drag their target of envy down to their level, this is why as a collective we all fail, do you not see that? Everyone dragging each other down, means we all end up at the bottom, like war, an eye for an eye and we all end up blind, how is that progressive? is that being human? This show is about harsh truth reality, and it is harsh, it has to be because we have all gorged on bullshittery our whole lives, this show is about elevating us all, many of our members have complained to me I don't give myself enough credit, yes I see that, but that is then putting me on a pedestal, the drive for me is, we are all on the pedestal not just the one, the one is replicating the old system. The old system created for us failed, but it was created for us, because we didn't take responsibility to create a system for ourselves, and if people think playing the old movie over and over again, like Groundhog day will bring change, you're as deluded as they come. Stuck in the programs and programming of non-creative thinking and let's all play bots, of copy and repeat, is that being human? fss, wake up. Education, Government, Health, Charity, Finance, War and Military, class structure, culture, religion and business all failed, and failed spectacularly, not as spectacular as what was known as The Order, but nonetheless it all failed. To the few who really know what has gone on, on this planet, we knew it was all designed to fail is why, are we really that stupid to keep repeating failed old models? or do we analyze each section and come up with solutions of a better way, for the first time in 110K years at least. That is the task we all face going forward, our past legacy is not pretty and people can carry on projecting at others, the reality is they are projecting at themselves. This is why you are seeing so many in public, alt and social media accusing others of doing what they have done, or participated in themselves, oops, their own lack of humanity prevents them from seeing what the observer sees, the problem is YOU, but sadly you are not alone in that thinking, it is a pandemic within society. Cassandra said we have told you the truth and even the few amongst you relaying the truth are dismissed and ridiculed to a point of exasperation. That is a fact, for people who believe in Jesus what did his followers or the people do to protect him? Nothing. Radomir or Mary Magdelene? again nothing but a very few who tried to protect them. Anna in the 1500's again the people stood and cheered in the square, as she was burnt alive by the Cat holic church for daring to teach the truth. All people who stand up for the real truth get treated the same way, denigrated, abused, threats of violence, their lives destroyed trying to help you all, that is the price people pay for trying to help you. The few have gone to great lengths to help the all and that is what they get in return for doing so. You can't blame any other organization for doing that, it is you, humanity as a collective who did and does that. What is worse is your friends and family do the most damage, is that being human?

What is human? have we defined it? like what will life be like in a better world? too few have defined it, what does it mean? what does it entail? how will we go about it? how will we achieve it? Do we want to achieve it? is there a plan? We have a plan, but do you have a plan? or are you too content for others to make a plan for you? which is exactly what transpired in the old model is it not? Where is your plan? where are your solutions? why is there a propensity to only bring problems or faults with others? Pushing others into making a plan for you, is dissolving your own responsibility, so when the few only back the plan and it fails, people can then point fingers at those who failed, but that is the illusion, a plan fails, as the all didn't participate in it, to make it work. If the all participate in it, any plan has a better chance of prevailing, but people fight over being leader, their ideas are better than yours or they want to control the plan and the narrative. For an example of that, look in the THI state and country groups, too busy arguing over pedantics and control, self-serving agendas, rather than coming to a common consensus and solutions, you can't deny it, that happened. Awake are no better than sleepers in that mode, why, because the you hasn't addressed the self-problems, low self-esteem or confidence, ego imbalance and the comparative and competitive mindsets are the ills in us all. These are the reasons behind our collective continuing failure in life, you are responsible for that change, if you don't and you go in a group setting, you then trigger others to jump back to the old model way, then it becomes a loop, a hamster wheel, of repeated and repetitive failure mindsets. So the change is YOU, YOU are the change, it is symbiotic and infectious, like attracts like, you can attract negative which is the subset of humanity now, or you can be and attract positive higher vibrational energies, the choice is yours. Are you going to create change and be different, or say you will be creating change, but run the same failed, old model program? Because there are too few who are aware of what is going on, within them or around them, they have become vacant empty shells, vessels whose programming ran out and failed, and there is no one to tell them what to do now, so panic ensues. This is what we are all witnessing currently, they are like a child's first time on a bicycle, waiting for a parent to push them along, thrashing about with no direction, life whizzing past them, the majority of which they are oblivious to. Look around you, nothing works, people are going nuts, behavior and demeanors get more bizarre by the day, hey let's all eat babies to save the planet, eat humans to stop the climate change, sounds like an off-world restaurant to me that. But they warned you all of it, back in 1991, with the movie Silence of the lambs, you didn't think that was about entertainment, did you? I said recently fact is fiction and fiction is fact, do you understand that concept now, most people just thought that woman saying let's eat babies was a joke, it's not. It is implanting the seed in people's psyche, from eating babies to sexually molesting children at any age, they are programming you to accept it, and as they know most people ignore everything they do, they get away with it. The few that challenge it, then become targets by internet warriors, some of which are paid to do so, or coerced into doing so, by the fact the authorities have dirt on them and are using that as leverage against them. Who are you? and some will reply I am me, but what is you? have you defined what is you? are you the body? the spirit? the soul? the mind? you do realize a body without a spirit dies in organic humans. It is the primary cause of death in the sleep, the spirit didn't make it out of the astral level, was attacked and consumed by the energy harvesters contained within that realm. Science won't tell you that, neither will your doctor, psychologist or hospital, they just say it is unexplainable, it's not, it is clearly explainable, but who wants to hear it? A new chapter of what it means to be human will have to be defined and rewritten going forward, all cultures are culpable and responsible for this current mess, don't believe me, here is a small reminder, based on the collective, not the individual. White people based in greed, all about the self, and walk around with fake avatars of the real person, have a serious alcohol abuse problem, have numbers of white people within elite circles with vast wealth, none of which is shared amongst their own people, your history is false. Blacks in America and Africa, lots of ill-gotten gains from drugs, gun running, prostitution none of which is shared within your own community, creating ghettos, high levels of violence and deaths between your own people, trading your own people as slaves long before the Europeans arrived, your history is false. Tribal groups again involved in clandestine money making schemes, plus oil and casinos and yet none of it is given to your own people, forced into living in shacks and ramshackle reservations. Forcing their own people to work as slave labor on the reservations, they are stated as to be in tune with mother nature and yet drill right through her to harvest bacteria poop for monetary gain, that is not being in tune with nature. Stated to be in touch with the spirit world and promote psychedelic concoctions that puts people in grave danger, because they are ignorant of the facts, fake shamans with less than a year's training, all designed to make money, none of which is shared with their own people, your history is false also. India and that region of Asia, you run a caste system even to this day, that was blamed on the Dutch and British and yet you still persist with it today 72 years later, is it the Raj or the Ra, 8 of the top 10 richest people are Indian, yet do they share amongst their own people, like all other groups, the answer is no. Forced marriages, forcing children into marriages, making out Buddha and Hinduism is based on your culture, it's not it's fake, the Rus tried to teach you a better way, you failed. 1/3rd of the worlds hunger problem is in India, 7000 die each day in India from hunger, so much for Buddha and Shiva teachings being about love and consideration. Your history is false. Australia/New Zealand the group who sold humanity out 16500 years ago for weapons against a local tribe, the Aboriginal group also corrupt, gaining back their lands only to sell it onto developers, create oil fields none of which the proceeds goes back to their own people, your history is false also. Hispanic peoples like the black population involved in clandestine money programs against your own people, using them as slaves and patsies, involved in drugs, laundering, trafficking, child sex related programs and in Central America child rituals programs, none of the proceeds goes back to their own people, your history is false also. The Middle East riddled with same criminality as above, add in religious feverism and you have a cocktail of violence, death and destruction, your history is more fake than the rest combined. Vast quantities of minerals, treasures and artifacts the proceeds of which are not shared with your own people either, you can't even share the land. Your story is his story and as fake as a glass eye. Chinese and Japan, again riddled with gang warfare generating vast profits off their own people, again not shared amongst their own people, even in Hong Kong there has been an incredible surge in wealth in recent years, did they share it? no. Pol Pot, Chairman Mao, and many other leaders in that country murdered millions of Chinese over a difference of opinion, Yakuza and Triad gangs assembled vast wealth, again none of it shared with their people. Your history is false also. The world has 838M people undernourished and yet we have 1.6B people overweight, of which 742M are obese, that in and of itself shows a lack of sharing, need not greed. People say there is no money and yet so far this year $316B has been spent on illegal drugs alone, all about priorities isn't it? The role of the archetype mother is to care for her children, yet to date this year there has been 33.5M abortions globally, you can make excuses for a portion of those aborted births, but nowhere near that figure. 2m to date this year have died of alcohol abuse, you can afford to buy alcohol which is not a basic in life, but not feed the millions starving around the world? All a classic example of greed not need, of looking after the self and not the all. Where is the care of and for others? Why is there a lack of care? Because the majority only care for themselves. Which would be useful if they cared for themselves and fixed themselves, but that is not the case either, is it? As we approach an eclipse in this country this coming Saturday, an event horizon of differing sorts, will it reach a nadir and go forward or will it be left and met in silence, with only whispers on the wind. Who will nurture it? Embrace it? And who will ignore it and just gorge on the entertainment factor of it all? Briefly the sun will appear to dim from your perspective, but the sun always shines 24/7, it never rises or sets. The heart wishes to go on, but the head wishes to stay in its own prison, we were never meant to be in a prison of our own making. Is that being Higher Universal man or serpent man? As one member said today, refusing to love is the same as refusing to breathe, it has the same consequences. Yet so many in this country do just that, as explained as to why so many are single. A world or country without love is a dying entity, will you stand by and give it its last rites or breathe life and love into it? 3-4 years on and too much of that is still prevalent and questionable as to where we are heading as a collective. People are still protecting their labels, when they should be setting an example of how to be. His story still plays out as people are reluctant to face their own truths, that has devastating consequences as the Israel and Palestinian people found out again this week. Everything I warned of in those pieces 4 years ago has and is playing out, particularly the global collapse. The old world as I described back then, makes much more sense now to you all. But there is much hope also, largely coming out of our own group as we were prepared to take on responsibility for it, unlike billions of others. The Blueprint is having a large effect, that you are all aware of now within your own circles. This is the beginning of it, let us all put more effort into seeing it come to a beneficial conclusion. That is a task accomplished by us all coming together, sharing the load, caring and sharing with compassion, empathy, consideration and love. To do that, you all have to follow your hearts and remember hope is the avenue of the light.
